I'm still going to be trying to use up leave so I don't lose it next week, how about talking on Monday, Jan 11? I'm available any time that day.

I have all my main thoughts drafted, so I could talk whenever we could schedule something. But much of my thinking is about future activities at the site, rather than the EBR itself, so I thought it might be useful to go over our ideas and planned approaches to see how they fit together.

I do plan to be back in the office on the 4th, so I could go up to the lab then and talk with Eva, if that would work better.

Can if you want. When do you think you'd be ready to discuss?

Should we have a conference call before I submit my written comments on the EBR?
